

Moving your work to an organization

You can transfer repositories and projects from your personal account to a new or existing organization through your account settings.

Keeping your username for the organization

If you want your new organization to use your current personal account username, you'll need to rename your personal account first:

1. Change your personal account username to something new. For more information, see Username changes.
2. Create an organization using your original username, then follow the steps below to move your work.
